Evaluation of professional standing

Having completed a bachelor's degree programme, in Business Studies, with Accounting as major, I graduated SUNNY UNIVERSITY IN YORK STATE, UTICA ROME, in May 1988.

Beginning my career, during the period August 1988 to January 1992, I worked as a professional accountant at various well known accounting firms, namely, Coopers and Lybrand, Touche Ross, Clark Kenneth Leventhal and Moore Stephens. During that period I had worked as a junior, semi and senior professional independent auditor and tax consultant.

During the period February 1992 to January 2005 I had worked at the Inland Revenue Department of the Government of Cyprus, as tax assessor in various departments examining employed, self-employed and companies tax declarations. I was studying to become a professional accountant and finally on May 2004 I finished the professional examinations of the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants in UK and in November 2004 I became a member of one of the biggest bodies of accountant's world wide.

During the above mentioned period of my professional career I had developed strong professional skills on auditing and taxation and I became a professional and an expert on communication, handling discussions and reaching agreements for settlements of auditing and tax matters.

Since January 2005 I am a director of Success Consultants a network of doing business consultants in more than 178 countries.

My daily work is to prepare and finish audit assignments, have meetings with clients to discuss and solve their tax planning and general business problems, have appointments with government officials to reach settlement, agreement of clients' tax objections, and or any other disputes matters with the Inland Revenue Department.

I am expert on giving professional opinion on financial statement analysis and proposals on how to improve profitability and overcome economic crisis, by giving re-structuring scenarios and propositions.

I have a strong feeling that my educational, academic background, work and life experience, have placed me in a high professional level so as to exploit new methodologies and ideas on how to better perform my professional work.

Here in Cyprus we say that "education" and "work experience" have finally got married and the outcome were new born methodologies and ideas.

Over the years I have created my own working tools and methodologies on how to run daily professional work, effectively, efficiently, and tailored to meet organizational standards and legal forms.

I have created, developed computer software application programmes, which are my working tools, to produced financial statements, financial ratio analysis and auditing working papers, which are adhered to international financial reporting and auditing standards.

Two years ago, I created, developed an internet accounting software to help me manage long distance clients. Both client and I have at the same time access on their accounting records. This helps build immediate communication and corrective actions on accounting records.

I started building a huge administrative data base programme to help me efficiently and effectively manage my clients with the use of an intranet. The goal is to develop a programme to meet the standards and requirements of professional accountants to administer their daily work of accountancy, taxation, auditing and other administrative work. When the programme is professionally completed, would be sold to professional accountants.
